
UNE-EN ISO 9001: 2008

A management system aiming for Quality effective processes for manufacturing and service companies.

The Quality Management System according to UNE-EN ISO 9001: 2008 Standard is the system in which the internal processes and procedures of your company are described.

ISO Certification benefits the comprehension of your business management and helps you to better control your business processes.

AEQ advises and assists you in the design, development and implementation of your QMS. Once assessed by the certification body, you will obtain accredited certification recognized worldwide.

Our extensive experience in the implementation of QMS and Global Management Systems, as well as the skills our consultants have, make it possible to develop a work method which is simple and has visible results.

Our method consists in carrying out only the visits that are necessary; in this period, the key stages for the achievement of the objectives will be developed:

- We will analyse your situation with regard to the requirements
- Elaborate only necessary documentation
- Implement the system
- Train and provide the necessary skills to your employees
- And verify the system for it to be certified

Up to present, over 1.100 companies have placed their trust in us. We've been developing and implementing complete management and quality programmes throughout our country for 15 years. All this, thanks to the fact that our work and organization system represents:

- An easy work model
- No interferences in the day-by-day of your company
- Quick and effective development
- Long term and easy to maintain

For further information or in case you request a visit from us without obligation, please click here to fill out our contact form